

The Senate Labor and Industrial Relations Committee, the Legislative Women's Caucus, and the California Commission on the Status of Women and Girls jointly present:

Implicit Bias and its Impact on Women in the Workforce: Occupational Segregation

November 14, 2017 - 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
State Capitol
Room 4023

AGENDA

Welcome and Opening Remarks

- Senator Holly J. Mitchell, Chair, Senate Select Committee on Women and Inequality
- Senator Steven C. Bradford, Chair, Senate Labor and Industrial Relations
- Members of the California Legislative Women's Caucus
- Commissioners of the California Commission on the Status of Women and Girls

Panel 1: The History and Status of Gender Occupational Segregation and Relevant Legal Boundaries

- Jessica Stender, Senior Staff Attorney, Equal Rights Advocates
- Eileen Boris, Hull Professor and Distinguished Professor of Feminist Studies, UC Santa Barbara
- Julian Gross, James O. Gibson Innovation Fellow, PolicyLink

Panel 2: Obstacles and Opportunities to Gender Occupational Equity

- Daniel Rounds, Research, Policy, and Legislative Director, California Workforce Development Board
- Jodi Pincus, President, Rising Sun Energy Center
- Aida Cardenas, Executive Director, Building Skills Partnership
- Meg Vasey, Executive Director, Tradeswoman, Inc.
- Emily Lo, Captain, City of Davis Fire Department; Co-Chair, Women's Commission to Recruit Women for the Fire Service

Panel 3: Solutions to Gender Occupational Disparities at Various Parts of the Pipeline

- Lynn Shaw PhD, Visiting Dean of Sector Strategies California Community College Chancellor's Office; Electrical Technology Professor, Long Beach City College
- Jacob Knapp, Deputy Counsel, California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office

Public Comment

Closing Remarks and Adjournment